It's like living in a National Park.

Did you ever want to live in a National Park?

The Preserve is the next best thing.

The Preserve is a 700-acre mountain sanctuary that provides upscale remote living and modern amenities. The homes are nestled within a lush deciduous and evergreen Appalachian forest which presents magnificent views of it's neighbor the Great Smoky Mountains National Park.

The development is surrounded by the beauty of Smoky Mountain flora and fauna and greatly enhances the owners investment.

The Great Smoky Mountains are known for their vast diversity of plant and animal life and boast far more species, both common and rare, than any other national park.

The Preserve is divided into three distinct neighborhoods. All have magnificent views.

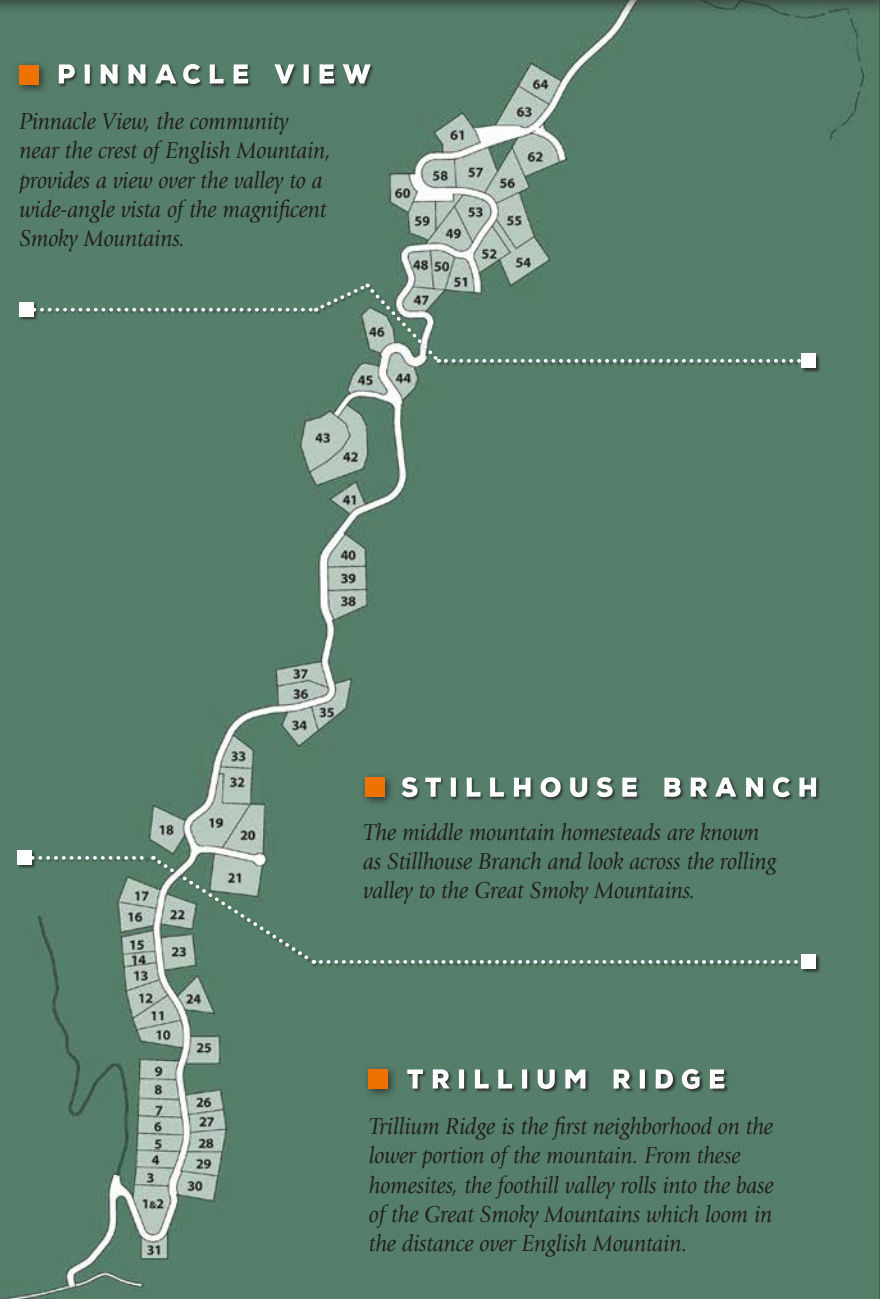

THE NEIGHBORHOODS

All the homes are bound by a covenant designed to protect the wildness and beauty of the area. There has never been a community built like this one. Every care has been taken to step lightly and to repair any damage done by building roads and homes. No tree is taken unnecessarily, and extreme caution has been taken to ensure that the forest is left as pristine as possible.

PINNACLE VIEW

Pinnacle View, the community near the crest of English Mountain, provides a view over the valley to a wide-angle vista of the magnificent Smoky Mountains.

STILLHOUSE BRANCH

The middle mountain homesteads are known as Stillhouse Branch and look across the rolling valley to the Great Smoky Mountains.

TRILLIUM RIDGE

Trillium Ridge is the first neighborhood on the lower portion of the mountain. From these homesites, the foothill valley rolls into the base of the Great Smoky Mountains which loom in the distance over English Mountain.
